

How to travel to Lund

There are two airports close to Lund: one is Malmö (Sturup) Airport located 30 km south-east of Lund. The other one is Copenhagen Airport (Kastrup) in Denmark. There is also a train station in Lund.

Malmö Airport - Sturup

Sturup has frequent connections with Stockholm but only few regular international flights. There is a bus service from the airport to central Lund, usually in connection with planes from Stockholm. Taxi takes about 30 minutes and should cost around 250 SEK. Check the price beforehand.

Kastrup - Copenhagen

Most people traveling to Lund will come through Copenhagen Airport, Kastrup. The train across the bridge to Sweden, Öresundståg, leaves every 10 minutes. You may have to change trains at Malmö C. The travel time is about 35 min, and tickets cost 135 SEK one-way.

Train

The train station in Lund is the station having connections to all of Sweden with most train arrivals and departures. The regional trains are called Pågatåg.

Pågatåg

From Malmö Central railway station there are regional trains (blueish - purple) running every 10 minutes or so, less frequently on evenings and weekends. Tickets can only be bought in special vending machines. The homepage of Skånetrafiken contains timetables: skanetrafiiken.se

Öresundstågen

Trains leave frequently (every 10 minutes) going from Copenhagen/Østerport via Kastrup Airport and Malmö C to Lund C. A single ticket from Copenhagen/Kastrup to Malmö costs 100 SEK, and to Lund 135 SEK. See the homepage of Skånetrafiken for timetables and additional information skanetrafiiken.se
